WASHINGTON D.C. WATER CONFERENCE

Feb 25 - 27 • Willard InterContinental

Advancing California Water Issues: Be There at ACWA DC2025

Join fellow water agencies in Washington, D.C. to raise awareness of critical California water issues at the ACWA 2025 D.C. Conference! This year promises to be an exceptional opportunity for networking, advocacy, and learning with key policymakers.

With the presidential election behind us and Congress continuing to address pressing national issues, the 2025 D.C. Conference will be the ideal time to engage with decision-makers who influence California's water future. Whether you're a seasoned advocate or new to ACWA's federal initiatives, this conference offers something for everyone.

Expect a dynamic mix of Innovative programming and traditional favorites, featuring a wide array of speakers and sessions on the latest water policies, infrastructure challenges and more.

WHAT CAN YOU EXPECT?

- On Tuesday, start with a networking breakfast, followed by sessions on ACWA's federal water priorities, the legal impact of recent court decisions on water policy, and the Farm Bill's influence on agriculture and forestry. There will also be discussions on energy policy, focusing on electric grid resilience amid rising demand and evolving energy sources.
- On Wednesday, join the networking breakfast and hear keynote addresses from Trump Administration officials. Then, meet back up with colleagues for lunch before heading to the Capitol to hear from the CA Congressional Delegation at the signature Congressional Speech Program.
- On Thursday, the day will start with a program on Combating Natural Disasters: An International Perspective, highlighting global approaches to disaster response and resilience. Following the program, members are encouraged to schedule their own meetings with Congressional Representatives and Administration Officials. For resources and tips on scheduling meetings, please review ACWA's Outreach Handbook.

Capacity is limited. Registration available on a first-come, first-served basis.
